Women Wets Expected To Support Roosevelt

NEW YORK, July 3.—(Special.)—
Mrs. William T. Henley, of Atlanta, Georgia chairman of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, arrived here today from Chicago, where she has been attending the democratic national convention.

Mrs. Healey is here to meet with other members of the executive committee of her organization to decide which ticket the organization will support in the forthcoming election.

"Of course our organization is going to support the democratic candidate."
Mrs. Healey said. "The democratic platform calling for repeal is highly satisfactory, whereas the republican plank is just the opposite. However, formal announcement of our organization's intention cannot be made except by action of the executive committee which is scheduled to meet with our national chairman, Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, on Thursday."

Mrs. Healey said she expected to return to Atlanta Thursday.

Brought from the Passy cemetery in Paris, where it remained after the imposing national funeral for the former foreign minister and peace advocate on March 12, the coffin was lowered into what he had wished to be his last resting place.

Frank B. Kellogg, American co-author with Briand of the famous anti-war pact, and Norman Armour, charge d'affaires of the American embassy, attended the burial ceremony, at which Premier Edouard Herriot delivered a tribute.

Only Relief and Two Appropriation Bills Now Remain To Be Passed; New Fight on Beer.

BY EDWARD W. LEWIS.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(UP)—
The whip will be snapped over congress this week, in an effort to force adjournment as soon as the $2,100,000,000 unemployment relief program has been acted on.

Ah apparent willingness to sidetrack if necessary the home loan discount bank bill in order to assure end of the session by Saturday was evident among party leaders. Senator Charles L. McNary, republican, Oregon, said: "The desire of most of us to get through will likely mean a stampede for adjournment after relief is out of the way."

Possibly spoiling the week-end holiday recess of many senators and representatives still "on the fence," was the beer tax proposal of Senator Hiram Bingham, republican, Connecticut, Undismayed by the intention of leaders to prevent if possible another wetdry vote in congress this session, Bingham was going ahead determinedly.

Council of Irreconcilable Prohibitionists Is Silent, However, on Choice for Presidency.

CHICAGO. July 3.—(P)—Irreconcilable prohibitionists, through their national board of strategy, today proclaimed war on both platforms and urged all friends of the eighteenth amendment to "devote their best efforts to the election of dry candidates to both houses of congress and to state legislatures."

The strategy board, in a formal statement issued after a long argument over its phraseology and whether it should be issued at all, said:

"We are opposed to repeal. We are opposed to the submission of any repeal or modification proposal which would destroy or weaken national prohibition. The prohibition forces of their ability, preserve, protect and defend that salutary governmental policy."

the statement gave no advice to the drys as to how to vote in the presidential contest, but said the board at an early date would "recommend and publish the procedure and active steps to be taken in the conduct of the campaign."

The board approved portions of the republican submission plank, but said the democratic declaration would "eliminate the eighteenth amendment in its entirety from the constitution and would open the flood gates to wholesale and uncontrollable violations of the law."

Opposition to the provision in both platforms for ratification of a new amendment by state conventions was expressed on the ground that this method was "untried, entirely unprotected by election laws and corrupt practices acts, and directly inviting all forms of jobbery and machine control"

The drys recognized that national prohibition "has not had the degree of observance and enforcement to which it is entitled," but said this policy "has accomplished more and has been far more successfully enforced than any other policy of liquor control which has ever been tried."

ABOARD TWENTIETH CENTURY LIMITED, TOLEDO, Ohio, July 3.—(P)—Whether Alfred E. Smith will campaign for Governor Franklin D. Farley, returning to New York after managing Roosevelt's convention battle, asserted tonight he vapected to call upon former Governor Smith this week with the avowed intention of "patching things up."

Although he declined to say whether he would ask Smith to participate in the campaign, Farley said he had been a close friend of the 1928 presidential candidate for years and he expected to "have a long talk" with him. Pinchot Keeps Silence On Rumor He'll Bolt

UR KUMOY HEU BOLL
HARRISBURG, Pa., July 3.—
(P)—Governor Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, tonight declined to answer the question uppermost in the minds of Pennsylvania's delegates to the democratic national convention as they speculated as to whether the governor would bolt the republican party and support
Franklin D. Roosevelt for the presidency.

Franklin D. Roosevelt for the presidency.

"I have nothing at all to say about politics at this stage of the game." Pinchot said tonight at his Milford home.

Rumors Pinchot would go over to Roosevelt buzzed anew this week when Senator George Norris, republican, Nebraska, left the republican fold and came out for the democratic nominee. Pinchot, Norris and Roosevelt have many political ideas in common.

Byrd of Virginia, and his brother, Admirel Richard E. Byrd.

"No Message."

"Have you heard from Smith?" the governor was asked.

"No," he replied, glancing down at the end of his glowing eigaret. There was the same answer to an inquiry regarding Frank Hague, the New Jersey leader, one of the commanders in chief of the "Stop Roosevelt" movement in the convention.

One of the governor's first interests when he returns to Albany, he said.

lieve, would mean the former governor did not intend to campaign for Roosevelt, the man who placed him in nomination in 1924 and 1928, and who labelled him "The Happy Warrior."

Farley said he did not plan any conference with Governor Roosevelt, who returns to Albany tomorrow. This week, however, he asserted he would be in constant communication by telephone with the governor.

Campaign Plans Undecided.

Roosevelt, said Farley, has not determined in so far as he knows what type of campaign he intends making. He said his Chicago talks with the nominee had been informal, and the impending campaign was not discussed.

The new national chairman, who will direct the Roosevelt campaign strategy, declined to say whether he would continue to hold the offices of chairman of the New York boxing commission and the New York state committee. His political intimates indicated Farley intends holding the three positions.

By a coincidence, Farley and his predecessor, John J. Raskob, personal friend of Smith and director of his 1928 campaign, returned to New York on the same train.

Mrs. Roosevelt remained in the hotelegrams and letters that came in after his nomination.

Mrs. Greenway, a delegate to the convention, is an old friend of the Roosevelt leaders that each state may well be put in charge of its, own campaign.

National advisory committees, however, are contemplated. Early and his conserved the world for an unceasing battle, and each set the pace in the conference here. The governor did not get to bed until midnight last night, allowed the holding the three positions.

ATLANTA, GA., JULY 4, 1932. SPINELESS JUSTICE.

Nationwide amazement has been aroused over the discharge by a Chicago court of Gangster McGeorghegan because of underworld threats against a state's witness in the bank robbery case in which this representative of gang rule was the defendant. McGeorghegan is listed as one of Chicago's "public enemies." He has frequently been before the bar of justice, one case resulting in a murder conviction, only to wiggle out of his just deserts in each instance.

Tried recently under the bank robbery charge, he secured a mistrial when one juror held out to the end against conviction. Up for retrial, the prosecuting attorney moved the quashing of the charge in order to "prevent the witnesses from being assaulted or even killed by friends of the hoodlum defendant"-and the judge so ordered.

AUTOINTOXICATION WOULD BE JUST TOO BAD IF IT COULD HAPPEN.

Whenever one eats of drinks too much and neglects daily exercise, work or play to burn the surplus fuel, the first alibi one thinks of is a lazy liver, or if one's heafth education has been obtained in the modern school (rear pages of magazines) perhaps one prefers to call it autointoxication or intestinal stasis. But no matter how thin one slices it, it is still boloney.

loney. Physiologists and pathologists agree that harm is done when the natural waste products of metabolism are retained in the blood or tissues, and such faulty elimination of vital combustion products is a secondary feature in many disease conditions. But for the sake of peace of mind and good health very one should undergood health very one should under-tand clearly that this type of body stand clearly that this type or body poisoning (call it autointoxication if you like) is rarely if ever due to a costive or constipated habit or state. It has nothing to do with the food residues in the intestine.

The old-time quacks explained it all by blaming the liver, and their dupes forgot it all almost as readily when they took "liver regulators" as they they took "liver regulators" as they took "liver regulators" as they did when they took nothing. Modern charlatans have a freer flow of language and much more expensive ways of keeping victims from forgetting it. but they still ascribe the evil to poisoning of the body by something absorbed from the colon, so that in some cases the wretches who suffer from the obsession find life one constant succession of "internal baths." Yet the more they wash away the imag-inuary poisons the more poison they imagine they have.

Perhaps the highest authority for the autointoxication theory is Metchnikoff. who conceived the hypothesis that the constant production of toxins by bacterial fermentation and putre-faction in the intestines causes many human ills, including premature sen-escence; and on this hypothesis the famous bacteriologist based his scheme of discouraging bacterial pu-trefaction in the intestine as a means of preserving health and prolonging BONERS are actual humorous tid-bits found in examination papers, essays, etc., by teachers.

The world created first was beautiful and good in the extreme. God made a mistake and created man. Man is God's most wonderful work, yet they have stained this beautiful work wick-Metchnikoff was not much of a physiologist. A physiologist knows that in the human intestine putrefaction is a natural or normal condition. A physician who is not blinded by subsidy or hope of reward knows that the temporary prevention of intestinal putrefaction makes no appreciable difference in the state of the individual's health.

I believe I am fairly expressing the consensus of medical opinion at the present time when I say that physicians with scientific training neither recognize "autointoxication" as a cause of disease nor deem the "elimination of toxins" a factor in successful treatment. Nostrum mongers, faddists and a few old fogies in regular medical ranks are the sole exploiters of the autointoxication obsession today.

LONDON, July 3.—(UP)—A labor party move to halt the impending Anglo-Irish economic war was made today coincident with reports that Irishmen as far away as the United States were threatening a boycott of British goods if the conflict develops. Commenting on the plans for tariff war between Britain and the Irish Free State, due to Ireland's technical default on land annuities, the Sunday Chronicle correspondent at Dublin said American Irish had cabled the British dominions secretary, J. H. Thomas, that British goods shipped to the United States would be boycotted.

Anti-British Campaign Urged.

The same group was said to have sent a cable to the Free State government urging that Ireland should not send a delegation to the imperial economic conference at Ottawa, but instead should send representatives to the United States to launch an anti-British campaign.

William Norton, the Free State labor party leader who last week gave support to President Eamon De Valera's regime in its struggle with Britain, arrived in London to confer with George Lansbury, the British labor party leader. They hope to "determine the best measures to halt the proposed economic war."

Lansbury, who is opposed to the tariff reprisals, said "the peoples of England and Ireland have everything in common and there is no reason why, just now especially, we should plunge ourselves into strife.

"We will strive hard for a proper tribunal to settle the matter by arbitration."

All-Empire Tribunal Rejected.

Britain proposed an all-empire tribunal, but De Valera refused to accept such a court, saying the dice would be loaded against the Free State.

Meanwhile, as a result of the British threat to take tariff reprisals against Irish live stock, farmers and breeders in the Free State were reported selling at panic prices. The Free State declined to make a semi-annual payment of $5,400,000 last week on the land annuities to the British exchequer, and British ministers tomorrow will introduce in parliament a resolution giving the government authority to collect by duties on Irish goods an amount equal to Britain pi ernment authority to collect by duties on Irish goods an amount equal to the annuities.

The Free State has indicated it would retaliate by duties on British exports to Ireland,

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER-MILLIE IS "MAD" ABOUT COUNT

FRIENDLY COUNSEL BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I live with my mother, father and two brothers. Father hasn't done a lick of work for two years. Mother and the brothers support the family. We get along very well financially but father is not a pleasant companion in the home. All of us try to please him but he insists that we are all trying to drive him away from home. He gets spells of being mad and doesn't say a word for days. Then he picks up and leaves, going to his mother and father for a visit. When he first comes home he is like a different person but in a few days he is himself again, cross and fault-finding. He tells outsiders that he loves me but he is perpetually quarreling with me. I have found that the best way is to make no reply to him. It hurts me to hear him talk roughly to my mother, who is the best woman in bin?

E. P. V.

The whole family should treat him yet to a good lecture in which he is told that if he lives on the bounty of an others he must at least be agreeable and make himself both helpful and make himself both helpful and pleasant to all the members of the household. A professional loafer fresh from a two-pear experience at his favorite pastime has no chance to get a paying job in this time. But he can certainly help with the housework and make the wage-earning mother and wife feel that he is assuming some responsibility for the family which he is supposed to head.

Perhaps he is sick in body and, therefore, in mind. In that event the money necessary to send him to a physician would be well spent.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Antoinette Brookes, 18 years old, Tony to family and friends, was left alone in the world when her father and mother were killed in an automobile accident in Centerville, her home town. She has just graduated from high school and intended to go to art school, but she learned that for the last six months her father had fought off bankruptcy. As a child, Tony had taken painting lessons and at 16 she turied her love for line and color to dress designing. No more "studies" appeared on the walls of her home but on all the Brookes tables were albums, sli filled with the dream-dresses Tony or her audience would one day wear. When her father's estate was settled, Tony had slightly less than $200. Art school was out of the question just then; she must earn her living and try to save enough for evening classes. Tony's capital was down to $12 when she got a job as helper in Madame Simon's dress shop in New York. Now go on with the story. SYNOPSIS.

INSTALLMENT 3.

That had occurred two, going on three weeks ago. Lee and Tony had knocked, had thundered at opportunity's doors. No door had opened. Funds dwindled. Five dollars, loaned by Tony, went to Lee's "tenderhearted" landlady who claimed that amount was due her for "service" and who refused to al'ow Lee to take away her clothes until the five dollars was paid. The remaining sum of Tony's savings must be carefully hoarded for rent. Food was inadequate in Mrs. Higgins' third floor back, but friendship flowered with all the celerity and vigor of youthful gardening.

behind the screen, sent an encouraging smile toward the bed. "I hate to disturb your beauty rest, but we've simply got to get on the job."

Lee rifled the last cigaret from a pack on the table. "Job? Don't be odd, angel. Job!"

"I was never more in earnest in my life. I'm fed up on this work while you must, and play when you can, stuff. From now on it's going to be play for Lelie Moran, ex-model, and maybe whatever work she is able to get in on the side. Better join me, Tony. Things are going to begin to pop. Wait and see."

Tony preferred to treat Lee's declaration in light vein, but an uncomfortable awareness of the seriousness of Lee's mood was strumming at her consciousness.

Tony preferred to treat Lee's deemenn?

Tony rebuked herself, "after what shis said this morning. I should have waited, urged her to come with me. She was discouraged and bitter. Some thing has made her that way."

Was that the buzzer? Yes, three third floor. Tony hurried to open the third floor. Tony hurried to open the third floor. Tony hurried to open "Yes."

"Mrs. Higgins, was it—was it Miss Moran? You'd know her voice, I'm sure." Had something happened to Lee, foolish lovable Lee with her charter about primroses and dropping gold coins in baskets and getting things without giving?

"An' how would I be knowin' her voice when there's a million as like."
When Mrs. Higgins was annoyed her brogue thickened. "All I know is, whoever 'tis says 'tis important, an' it's hung up on me they have."
Lee! Who else would be calling Tony insistently? She knew no one in the city, she was a stranger, except for Lee and now—

Tony closed the door. For the first time since her farewell to the house with the green shutters in Centerville, she felt that the long trail might not be worth the struggle to travel. On the painted blue table between a painted blue bed and a couch a clock sounded a senile soprano alarm. Then.n.g. — silence—Ti-n.n.g.—

It was the sort of insistent alarm that would not cease, regardless of the tightness with which fingers were thrust into resistant ears, or the close and over drowy heads.

The Mule, so reports have it, is a chastened Mule who does not kick out of the traces any more. He is eager to play ball today so as to hit a couple of home runs off whoever Nashville pitches. The Mule is irked at being let go in a deal which made it impossible to keep him on the list.

These fellows get me—these who do stunts like diving down to bump off a shark with a pocket knife or driving a motorcycle 75 miles per hour through plank fences.

They always seem so modest and self-effacing. "Bo" Huckman, from San Antonio, came into the office yesterday. He is the lad who has invented the stunt of driving a motorcycle through a plank wall. The wall, or fence, is constructed of one-inch planking and is braced solidly—the solidier the better. There is even a two-by-four crossing right where the handle bars

PIRATES DEFEAT CUBS, 5 TO 4, AND TAKE LEAD

Rain Halts Game; Meine Hurls for Pittsburgh; May Sees Action.

CHICAGO. July 3 .- (A)-Pittsburgh took the lead in the National today by winning a six-inning game from the Chicago Cubs, 5 to 4. A double-header was scheduled, but gain ended matters after six innings opener. The teams departed for Pittsburgh to renew their battle in two games tomorrow.

Pat Malone was knocked from the mound in the fourth inning and Jakie May held the Birates from then on, while the Cubs batted Meine for three runs in the fifth and sixth.

Chicago got started in the first when Herman opened the game with a double and scored on Cuyler's single to left.

chicago got started in the first when Herman opened the game with a double and scored on Cuyler's single to left.

Malone got into difficulties in the chird when Lloyd Waner scratched a hit to Grimm. Paul Waner, Yaughn and Traynor all followed with hard singles to right. Malone escaped with only two runs scored because Barbee flied to Barton, whose fine throw to the plate doubled Vaughn trying to score.

Malone walked Suhr and Piet for a starter in the fourth and after Gruce went out. Meine singled, Jurges booted L. Waner's grounder and Paul Waner singled, all this producing three runs. May ended the onset.

Again Herman and Cayler caused trouble for Meine in the fifth when their singles, with a walk to English in between, scored a run. As the rain increased, Barton opened the sixth with a line drive into the right field bleachers for a home run. Two were out when Jurges singled in front of Paul Waner, and came home with the fourth run for the Cubs when Moore batted for May and doubled to left. The tying run was on second as Herman lined one straight at Meine to end the inning.

It's not a pleasant memory that in 1928 the candidates for the United States Olympic team equaled the Olympic 100-meter record of 10 3-5 seconds no less than eight times in the trials before sailing. In the heats at Amsterdam, Bob MoAllister, the flying cop, again equalled the record. But when the chips went down, Percy Williams, of Canada, a voyager, too, by the way. scampered off with the victory in 10 4-5 seconds. And no American was nearer than fourth.

It's worth while remembering that not a single Olympic flat racing record is a world's record for the particular distance. The idea is not to run faster than anybody ever ran, but faster than anybody ever ran anybody ever ran anybody ever ran anybody

Some day a scientist is going to discover just how much of a handicap it is on an athlete to know that he is best of his class. How much does it cost Eastman in nervous energy to realize that record time is expected of him every time he steps out? cap it is on an athlete to know that the is best of his class. How much does it cost Eastman in nervous energy to realize that record time is expected of him every time he steps out?

Maybe it's not a cost. Perhaps the confidence and exultation he has gained from past successes cancels the handicap.

But it stands to reason that when the cheer leaders get together out in sunny California and begin chanting.

"We Must Win! We Must Win!" the tom-tom will begin wearing down Wykoff, Venzke, Eastman and the others. Who is the consulting psychologist for the Olympic team?

Foot racing is in a compartment by itself, anyhow. You can't settle down and pull yourself together during the test as you can in football, baseball, even tennis or golf. You start, you either lead or lag—and the chances are overwhelmingly against your coming from behind to win.

It's not like cycle racing, where he pedalers try to lurk behind and the pedalers try to lurk behind and nip the victory at the finish. There have been some great runners who were trembly at the start, but usually nervousness is an enemy. they were in feverish scholastic competition, almost as busy as the collegians.

Venzke has run often enough to keep in trim, but not in events where the honor of the school weighed him down.

It all comes down to the fact that for the United States team the Olympic games are being run in heats, with the most important one at Palo Alto this month, from which all the foreigners will be absent. It is almost a certainty that all along the line faster times will be made in these final tryouts, with their interminable, tiring trial heats, than will be made in the Olympics themselves.

The Real Estate Situation As Discussed by Those Who Know It from A to Z

ATLANTA

The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Georgia. Gentlemen:

Whether it be residential or business property -now is the time to buy real estate. This genera-tion will never again have the opportunity that is presented today.

In our opinion, Atlanta real estate prices have "rock bottom." Those who buy now will benefit materially in the years ahead.

Figures show that approximately 29 per cent of Atlanta families own their own homes; something like a 5 per cent increase in the past decade. With real homes being offered today on terms compar-able to rent, there is no reason why this figure should not be raised appreciably.

Greyling anticipates renewed real estate activity. We are backing up our belief by putting our properties in excellent repair, and increasing our facilities to serve the prospective home owner.

> Very truly yours, GREYLING REALTY CORPORATION Kirk Smith, Jr., District Manager

FAILURE OF DRY LAW IS LAID TO CHURCHES

In an address, which he-characterized as the nearest he had ever come to delivering a political sermon, Dr. Felton Williams, pastor, laid the blame for the breaking down of prohibition enforcement at the doors of the churches, Sunday night at Wesley Memorial church. Discussing his subject, which was "Prohibition—a Solution," Dr. Williams said that the churches obtained the enactment of the Volstead law at a great sacrifice and then sat back to leave the manner of its enforcement to politicians. No moral law, he said, is of any effect, unless backed by persons imbued with the proper spirit.

Dr. Williams denounced drunkenness and the saloon in no uncertain terms but seemed to doubt the efficacy of legislation as a safeguard for morals. The solution of the problem, he said, and the eradication of drunkenness rests with the churches, that
